New Delivery Services for Faculty and Staff

We're pleased to offer two new delivery services for faculty and staff that we hope will both maximize the use of the Library's print collections and save you time: digital delivery to your desktop of a Bowdoin-held print or microform article or book chapter, and paging of print items from the Bowdoin collection for pick-up at the H-L Library circulation desk. Library Collection Development Demystified

How does the Library select materials and develop the collections that support teaching and research at Bowdoin? Join Marjorie Hassen, College Librarian, and Joan Campbell, Collections Librarian, on Thursday, December 11th at 4 PM in H-L Library's Nixon Lounge for an open discussion and to share your thoughts about the extent to which we are meeting your needs. An overview of the Library's collection development strategies and details about how faculty can contribute to collection building are available on our website. We look forward to the conversation.

Data Support Services

We are pleased to launch a new Data Services portal, a collaborative effort between the Library and IT to provide information and avenues of help to support identifying and accessing data, data manipulation and mapping, and management, storage, archiving, and publishing. At the same time, we are interested in talking with faculty to learn more about how data is being used in all disciplines and the kinds of services that would be helpful to support that use for teaching and research. We will be reaching out broadly and would also be glad to hear directly from self-identified data users. Feel free to contact the Library's data specialist, Barbara Levergood, blevergo@bowdoin.edu | 207-725-3351.

Digital Honors Projects

Are you advising honors projects this year? In addition to depositing print copies of their final papers into the College Archives, students who have faculty approval may also submit a digital version for publication in the Bowdoin Digital Commons. Faculty and students who participated during the past two years have been enthusiastic about the results and found the submission process to be quick and easy. Our FAQ provides details and staff contact information. We hope you will discuss digital deposit with your students.
